WALLACE URGES "EVER NORMAL" GRANARY IN U.S.

It's His Answer to Problem of Drought In Corn Belt

ADVISES FARMERS
FROM 13 STATES

Opinions Sought On Legislation To Be Laid Before Congress

(By Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—Establishment of an ever normal granary—an adequate reserve of corn to be set aside in years of plenty to be drawn on in periods of scarcity—was advocated today by Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, as the answer to corn belt droughts which disturbed the nation's economic stability.

Wallace, in an address prepared for delivery on a national radio network, outlined his corn crop producing and marketing proposals to farmers and their representatives from Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky, Ohio, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Indiana.

Linked With Livestock
The secretary of agriculture emphasized that the problem of corn production and marketing was closely linked to livestock raising, chiefly hogs, and soil conservation in protecting the corn belt in years to come.

Recalling previous governmental efforts at corn crop control, Wallace asserted, "anyone who faces the facts with an open mind must come to these conclusions:

"First, that as things are today, it is unfair to subject farmers alone to unlimited competition; second, that there is no magic way of reopening quickly our big export markets, and third, that corn belt farmers can not afford to rely on chemistry for a quick solution of their problems.

Urges Cooperation
"All of which," he said, "leads to this fourth conclusion. The best way now open to deal with the corn problem is through cooperation of farmers in a program that will iron out the cycles of glut and scarcity; create an ever normal granary giving farmers and consumers better protection against food and feed shortages due to drought; stop the ruthless destruction of soil which has resulted from cut-throat competition among farmers, and safeguard agriculture, business and labor against the disaster of a farm price collapse.

"To do these things," Wallace continued, "farmers must have the help of their government. Social action to accomplish this is fully justified because such a program is vital to the public welfare."

Wallace asserted present falling prices have hurt farmers "because hogs now being sold were fed on dollar corn."

The conference was called by Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana to sound out opinions of midwestern farmers and businessmen on proposed legislation to be laid before congress at its forthcoming special session.

Puppetry, As Hobby, Gives Free Rein To Creative Art

Mrs. D. Eugene Parks and Miss Martha Williams Reveal Secrets of the Marionettes

By RUTH OBENOUR
Hobbies which permit their followers' creative instinct to blossom are among the most popular.

Puppetry, an ancient art which is enjoying a revival, gives free rein to perhaps hitherto suppressed or unexpressed creative, inventive and artistic talents of people.

There is little difference between puppets and marionettes, the terms being used interchangeably.

Hold First Conference
Early "Punch and Judy" shows delighted the children of our grandparents' day and those of many years before that. Puppetry is so popular and has been taken up to such an extent in recent years, that the first American puppetry conference was held last July in Detroit's Institute of Arts.

Information obtained from two people in the audience of our art brought out the fact that puppets may be made in many ways of a wide variety of materials.

Some, hand puppets, are fashioned so that the operator's fingers may be inserted to serve as legs and arms. Shadow puppets, unseen by audiences, cast moving silhouettes on a screen. Some operate by rods. The most common type of puppet is the one which operates or is controlled by a series of strings attached to the head, arms and the legs.

May Hold Key to China Crisis

Latest development on the international scene suggest that Real-leader Adolf Hitler, together with Benito Mussolini, may play the key role in the Sino-Japanese situation. Hitler expects to serve as umpire in the Far East crisis and dispatched his emissary, Joachim von Ribbentrop, to Rome to urge Mussolini to hasten conclusion of a pact between Italy and Japan, with whom Germany already has an understanding. This excellent study of the two dictators together was taken during the recent visit of Il Duce to Germany.

Washingtonville Driver Absolved

Samuel Jackson of Washingtonville has been absolved of any blame in a traffic crash near Pittsburgh on Oct. 14 which took the life of John Cain, 22, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., following a coroner's inquest held last week.

Jackson was held automatically after Cain's automobile crashed into one operated by Jackson. Ernest Zimmerman, of the Damascus rd., owner of the car the Washingtonville youth was driving, received a back injury in the crash.

WALKENS JOIN HARRIS GROUP

N. I. Walken renews Partnership with Former Associate

The Harris Amusement interests of Pittsburgh will take over the management of the State and Grand theaters in Salem, effective immediately, according to an announcement today by John H. Harris, general manager.

Since March 1, 1931, the two theaters have been owned and operated by the Walken Theatres Co. N. I. and H. L. Walken will remain in charge of the theaters while N. I. Walken also becomes district manager for Harris-directed theaters in Ohio.

One of Oldest Companies
The Harris Co. is one of the oldest established theater operating companies in the country. The late Senator John P. Harris of Pennsylvania founded the world's first all-movie theater over 40 years ago.

A plaque marking the location of this first movie house has been erected on a department store building in Pittsburgh by the Pennsylvania Historical society.

Shortly after Senator Harris' death, the Harris company sold its interests, comprising some 35 theaters, to Warner Bros. Pictures. A contract signed with Warner Brothers prevented the Harris company acquiring other theaters for a five-year period.

In 1934 this contract expired and since that time the Harris Amusement Co. has been operating the show.

GOVERNOR TO CALL SOLONS BACK NOV. 29

Poor Relief Program To Be Enacted At Special Session

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—Gov. Martin L. Davey said today he would call the legislature into special session beginning Nov. 29 to enact a poor relief program and deficiency appropriation.

At the same time, the governor listed what he called "certain principles to which we are definitely committed" on the relief problem:

1. Insistence that local communities match, dollar for dollar, state appropriations for relief.
2. Permitting local communities to make special tax levies for poor relief on a majority vote instead of the 65 per cent favorable vote now required.
3. Amend the law to permit municipalities to use present surplus funds for poor relief.
4. Appropriate not more than $7,000,000 as the states share.
5. Distribute state-collected tax revenues to cities and townships on the basis of their tax-duplicates, rather than population—this would give slightly more to the larger cities.

Accident Climaxes Heavy Weekend of Auto Accidents

181 ARE KILLED
ON U. S. HIGHWAYS

Several Injured In Accidents In Salem District

The deaths of two Girard girls in a traffic mishap near Youngstown this morning climaxed a heavy weekend of automobile accidents.

Sudden death took no weekend holiday for America's motoring millions. At least 181 persons were killed in highway accidents throughout the country—18 of them in spectacular crashes in each of which the toll was six lives. Twenty-one persons were killed in New York state alone.

Car Hits Pole
Near Youngstown this morning Sofia Yonas, 18, and Mary Acerno, 19, both of Girard, were killed when the car in which they were riding smashed into a pole. Three others were hurt.

Roy Scarlett, 46, of R. D. 1, Homeworth, suffered a broken ankle and leg lacerations and bruises, and Curtis Byers, 25, of R. D. 3, Alliance, received a possible skull fracture at 10:30 p. m. Sunday when their automobile crashed into the rear of a machine, driven by Robert Bandy of R. D. 1, Homeworth, on Route 62, one mile east of Alliance.

They were taken to Alliance City hospital. Corp. F. S. Van Allen and Patrolman R. M. Perry of the Salem state highway patrol, said Byers drove his car into the rear of Bandy's car shortly after the latter had turned out of a driveway and proceeded along the highway for about 15 feet. Bandy was held blameless.

Ward Eckstein of E. State st., received a lacerated neck and slight lacerations when the car in which he was riding with John Cosma, of R. D. 1, Leetonia, was struck by a machine operated by W. H. Nau, of Bedford, on Route 30, just east of Lisbon, Saturday afternoon. Cosma's car upset in a field after being hit by Nau, who attempted to pass another car, deputy sheriffs reported.

Leetonia Injured
Marico Altomare, 26, of Leetonia, was treated at the Central Clinic for cuts and bruises after his car figured in an accident on Route 14, one mile south of Deerfield, at 2 a. m. today.

Francis Latell of Girard was treated at St. Elizabeth's hospital, Youngstown, at noon Sunday for facial cuts after his car went over an embankment and hit a culvert on Route 224 near Ellsworth.

No one was injured when a car operated by Lawson Coler of Youngstown struck the rear of a machine driven by Mildred Weast of Sebring being hit by Nau, who attempted to pass another car, deputy sheriffs reported.

Walter Weigand, 13, of 540 Bank st., escaped unhurt when his bicycle rammed into the side of a car driven by Andrew DeJane, of 198 E. State st., at E. State st., and Lundy ave., at 8:15 p. m. Saturday.

John Reilly, 50, of Canfield, arrested by State Patrolman R. M. Perry on a charge of driving while intoxicated near Canfield at 4 p. m. Sunday, will be given a hearing at Canfield tonight before Mayor Robert Manchester.

J. H. Blinson of Niles, charged with hit-skip in connection with an accident on the Lisbon road Sunday night, will be given a hearing in the Canfield mayor's court later this week. He is at liberty under $500 bond.

There were the judges—only their dignity hurt—knee-deep in the wreckage of the wooden floor which had given way.

LESSON NO. 1

The Duke of Windsor was coming to the United States to find out how Americans live. His lessons began too early, and he got discouraged.

The personal representative who was planning his tour is Charles E. Bedaux, who once devised a scheme for measuring the production of manual labor.

Mr. Bedaux, because of this scheme, is considered by some labor leaders to be unfair to organized labor. Thus, by inference, the Duke and his American wife also are under suspicion as being unfair to organized labor, because they know and like Mr. Bedaux.

Perhaps this is hard to figure out. At the same time it is as typical a cross section of one part of contemporary American life as the Duke of Windsor could have found in a day's personal inspection.

AT LAST, A PANACEA

This is the season of good advice on the common cold. A typical list of 10 common sense rules contains these points:

Get plenty of sleep, eat nourishing foods, dress sensibly, don't wear wet clothing, bathe frequently, get outdoor exercise and avoid sudden changes of temperature. Stay away from persons who have colds.

Above all, when you feel sick don't try to drag around, thereby endangering yourself and everybody else. Go to bed and take care of yourself.

In other words, the way to handle the common cold is to refrain from doing most of the foolish things that foolish human beings do to make themselves vulnerable to the risk of sickness. If and when people learn how to keep from catching cold and how to take care of themselves when they do catch cold, the problem of infectious disease will be just about solved.

MEDIATOR

Unexpected billing of Chief Nazi Hitler in the role of far eastern mediator is as much of a surprise as if Wallace Beery were to be cast as Rhett Butler in "Gone With the Wind."

The solemn, earnest gentlemen meeting in Brussels to do the far eastern mediating job must be flabbergasted. Germany had refused to play in their show. Now it threatens to start competition across the street.

The astonishing thing is that Chancellor Hitler probably is well qualified to play the part. Aside from the fact that Germany is more noted for bungling than finesse in statesmanship, Herr Hitler's Nazified government possesses this important advantage: It has the confidence of both Japan and China.

Germany never has had an ax to grind in the Orient. Japan and China both have copied its military system, even to the point of borrowing German officers to train their armies. Probably Germany is as close to an ideal mediator as could be obtained under the circumstances.

Wallace Beery might make a good Rhett Butler, too.

DELIVERING A MESSAGE

Here is a story revealing how to get a message delivered:

Rockwell Kent was hired to paint two murals in the halls of the postoffice department building in Washington.

Naturally, he chose the subject of communication for his paintings. One of them shows Puerto Ricans reading a letter just received from Alaskan Eskimos.

No one knew what the letter said till a newspaperwoman asked Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, to translate it. He translated as follows: "To the people of Puerto Rico, our friends! Go ahead. Let us change chiefs. That alone can make us equal and free."

The postoffice department was upset. So were Puerto Rico officials. Postmaster General Farley ordered Artist Kent to tone down the letter. He refused, explaining it depended for its meaning on an important phrase of the Declaration of Independence.

So someone else will do the toning down, and the cost will be deducted from Mr. Kent's commission.

In the meantime, he can find comfort in the fact the message was delivered, something which never would have happened if a newspaperwoman hadn't become curious about the meaning of the strange Eskimo hieroglyphics in his mural and if the post-office department and Puerto Rico politicians hadn't played up obligingly by making an issue of the matter.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, November 9.

Judging by the lunar transits of this day, there are excellent prospects for increasing the possessions, solidifying the fortunes and reaching high goals while attaining some sort of conspicuous place in the public eye. This may all be achieved through the support of large corporations, diplomatic or political circles, secret societies or other strategic measures. Aim high, cultivating powerful personages. The private life should have pleasant reactions.

If This Is our Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of splendid opportunities for doing productive work. Increased finances, position, prestige and public recognition are in store, with the cooperation of powerful, possibly secret organizations. Home affairs should flourish.

A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed for high places, with enterprise, shrewdness, boldness and personal prestige attracting the support of influential persons or bodies.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Diary: Abroad to the florist's to see the new O. O. McIntyre dahlia. Tyrian rose in color and of the type called "semi-cactus." Then to Ben All Haggins' studio to leave a picture of his dog, Nimble, which he gave me. And pirouetting around the new Sulka shop.

Home and C. B. Driscoll came along, a fellow of pleasant ease, desiring nothing and at peace with himself. Came a souvenir sheet of the coronation editions of London gazettes from Basil Woon. Also bids to Dot and Deke Aylesworth's dance for Dorothy, and a Constance Collier tea.

With my wife and cousin to dinner at a public, feasting on a haunch of venison served with a thin goblet of hippos. And everybody so washed, be-decked and gay it was difficult to believe there is so much grief and woe in the tumbling world. To bed early.

The high spot of Chinatown's gastronomy is a nameless cellar place at 20½ Pell street. It makes no concessions to usual courtesies—no greeting at the door, none of the smiling unctious nor menus. One may wait for a half hour before a waiter comes, but finally a sleepy-eyed Celestial will shuffle out of nowhere with what he thinks you should eat and it's always a lip-smacking spread. The prices are low and the place was discovered for the uptown cognoscenti by Anna May Wong.

There's no sight-seeing tingle for me like visiting a Chinese quarter. And a Chinese restaurant is the only place I ever found where tea is not only tasty, but highly refreshing. One of the traveling treats I had saved up against more sedate years was a voyage to China, especially to see Shanghai and Peiping. But I waited too long, I fear.

Add unappetizing signs: That one over a Ninth avenue fish market reading—"Everything that swims, crawls or clings."

The old Morning Telegraph newspaper shop, now the site of Jack Dempsey's restaurant, was long the town's most picturesque plant. It was an abandoned car barn, patched up and made over like some derelict structure in a Shantytown. One reached the various departments up rickety stairs and the editorial room was amusing and mellow. Desks of reporters and editors were often old boxes, with smaller boxes as chairs. The walls were scrofulous with tattered burlesque and circus posters. Almost anyone with experience could land a job there. There were few rules. Many drank openly from whiskey bottles in drawers and lockers. And everybody loved the shack and his job. There were writers on the Morning Telegraph with Oxonian accents, spats and monocles, long-haired zealots burning with the fire of crusaders, bleary old has-beens shaken with whiskey tremors and cock-a-hoop collegiates on first assignments.

In those days there was the contrasting la-de-dah of the Evening Post that was on Vesey street. Important editors wore frock coats and sat at glass-topped desks enclosed with shiny brass railings. The aisles were carpeted and here and there was a potted plant. But it turned out some celebrated journalists, including the crack dramatic critic John Anderson, Harold Littlefield and Dudley Nichols.

During one of my jobless periods I visited, hat in hand, both the Telegraph and Post in quest of berth. Bill Lewis offered to take me on after only a few questions for $22 a week, but I got no further than the office boy at the Post. He ran a practiced finger over my visiting card, and, finding it not engraved, assured me there were no openings now and not likely to be.

Thingumbobs: Dr. George Rockwell, the comedian, is a shooting gallery addict. . . . John McCormack's son is making strides as a singer of Irish ballads. . . . Kent Cooper, the A. P. chief, is one of the crack "by ear" pianists. . . . Charles Dickens at the time of his death left the biggest fortune of any English writer, $500,000. . . . Kipling topped it with $800,000.

From a magazine story: No one heeded him until he began to sing and then they swarmed about him like flies to molasses. Men sought his bow, women his smile.

Alimentary Canal

There is a certain familiarity about the term "alimentary canal", but I wonder how many know to what part of the anatomy it is properly applied. The alimentary canal includes the whole digestive channel from the mouth to the anus. It is divided into two parts; one portion lies above the abdomen and the other lies within the abdominal cavity.

The upper part, running from the mouth to the stomach, is about 16 inches long. It takes the food, chews it, swallows it, and then carries it to the stomach, also included in this part of the alimentary canal. The lower part of the canal, located within the abdomen, is about 28 feet long. This portion of the intestine utilizes all the food material first, transforming it into a fluid state. These precious liquids join the blood and lymph and are carried by them to the different body cells to be used as fuel or building material.

In the food we eat are certain useless substances. They constitute the solid waste material which escapes in the feces. The equally useless or undesirable liquids leave the body in the urine.

In a few words I have just described several vital processes. The scientist calls these processes digestion, absorption or assimilation and excretion. All these results are accomplished by the alimentary canal within a period of 36 hours or less.

Works Always
"This long tube known as the alimentary canal is automatic. It is restless and sleepless. It works all the time, even when we are sleeping. It converts the raw material received at one end into food substances and then disposes of the worthless residue."

Many imagine that the stomach is the alimentary canal. As a matter of fact, the stomach is only a part of this canal, an important part—the digestive sac. The stomach is 11 inches long, four and one-half inches wide, weighs about four and one-half ounces, and is capable of holding about one quart of fluid. This organ is wider at the top than at the bottom. It does not receive the food at the top but on its left side, where the "esophagus" or food pipe enters. The stomach wall contains numerous glands, the products of which are essential to the digestion of food.

At another time I shall speak in detail of the lower portion of the alimentary canal. Important functions are performed there.

The reader will see that the alimentary canal is indeed a complex device. Care and attention should be given to it, for, like all other machinery, it may easily be damaged. When neglected or abused, such disorders as indigestion, nausea, "biliousness," constipation and other disturbances appear.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

"THE SILVER ROOD MYSTERY"

by Lewis Allen Browne

CHAPTER XXXVIII

"I shall start at the beginning," said my father, Andros Lardeau. A man of proud family but no great wealth. There had once been much wealth. Among his few great treasures was this small Van Dyck. It was his only child, unmarried. He wanted his name to be remembered, so he arranged to give the Van Dyck to the Swiss National Museum and to have with it a plate engraved with the name of the donor. Andros Lardeau, I was named thirty then. I would have liked the fortune it was worth, but my father too greatly to tell him so.

"But how the devil—all right, go on, professor," Harper said. "When the portrait was painted there were no such things as canvas frames. This was done on a prepared board. Some time, we would not know, it had been placed where it was damp, the board had started to weather and to crack. My father wrote out what he wanted engraved on a silver plate and entrusted me with the painting to take it to the silversmith shop of Fritz Lutzmann."

"I'll be damned!" Foxcroft exclaimed. "How could you know the scoundrel? He was much damned, you were sure. I explained to Lutzmann how the silver braces were to be put to the back of the painting and I told him as my father instructed me, that it was a worthless old painting but a family keepsake. I was to have the silver plate engraved elsewhere. Now the real reason I told Lutzmann that it was worthless should be plain—"

"You feared he would steal it if he knew its value," I said. "Quite so, sir. Then it happened. I went for the painting and found Lutzmann in a black rage. It was, I felt sure, merely simulated. The painting was gone but that was not what enraged Lutzmann, he declared. An American had been in the shop a few times and had lured his wife away. The American and his wife were gone. He did not know the name of the American, he had no means of finding out. Something had been delivered at a hotel but he didn't know the name and the hotel people swore that no young American, tall and dark, had been at the hotel in many months. Lutzmann swore to us that his wife had taken some valuable necklaces of silver, the painting which, he said, she had admired, and what money he had in the shop all while he was gone."

"Did he take anything else?" I asked. "Let me think—the painting, she had admired that, he said. Some costly silver necklaces and some money—no sir, that is all I recall. I heard him repeat it many times. A silver rood?" I suggested. "A silver rood? No, I recall nothing ever said of that. We put Lutzmann in jail, to be sure. But his wife never came back and we were forced to believe his story. He was two years in jail. When it was decided that he told the truth, he was released. He disappeared at once, after selling his shop. Of Fritz Lutzmann we heard no more."

Professor Lardeau sat back and regarded us calmly.

"How does that fit in with what you know?" Colton asked. "Partly," I told him, unwilling to admit too much. "Now, Professor," I said, "how in the world did you ever learn where the Van Dyck was?" "That is the marvel—the great accident, or perhaps the will of God. Who knows? I deal in paintings of value. I knew that a Mr. Montie had brought from Nodstrand, which you may verify, a small Corot. I knew were I could get another of the same size and general character. I called on him to see if I could interest him. He wasn't interested. I saw, on the wall, the long lost Van Dyck. It is a miracle that I did not swoon, but I became crafty. I pretended not to notice it at first. Then I asked him where he bought it. He said that it was given to him and that while it was only a copy, he rather liked it. He said that a Mr. Ingram had told him it was a copy."

"Well, gentlemen, not to seem too anxious, I merely said I would buy it for five hundred. He said it wasn't worth more than three but he wouldn't sell. I came back again on the pretext of trying to sell the Corot, and this time I offered him much more money for the painting. He laughed and said he wouldn't cheat me."

"Why didn't you tell him the truth, if you were so sure?" Foxcroft wanted to know. "I was sure. I took it down. I saw the silver braces on the back that Lutzmann had affixed. As I have said, I came back the third time prepared to offer more and, if that failed, tell him the story of that Van Dyck and assure him that it was a stolen painting, that he must give it up of the Swiss Museum people, or the actual government, would bring suit. He was asleep. I preferred to avoid delay, court fights, and the possibility that the painting would never hang in the museum over the name of my beloved father, and so I took it. I said, I did not steal it, for one cannot steal what is one's own."

"Got any proof?" Harper asked, rather gruffly as the professor sat back as though he had finished. "Plenty," Mr. Colton said. "All that Professor Lardeau has told you I have verified. I have a copy of the letter from Andros Lardeau notifying the museum authorities that he was giving them the Van Dyck. I have the police records of the arrest and imprisonment of this Fritz Lutzmann. There is the will of Andros Lardeau leaving all to his son, the professor, here, with the stipulation that if ever the stolen Van Dyck was found it was to go to the museum."

"That story may be all on the level, professor," said Harper, "except that in your frantic desire to get the painting you killed Montie."

"Should I, Henri Lardeau, stain with a foul crime, the history of the painting my beloved father had longed to see hanging in the museum?"

"Why didn't you send us word, when you got back, explain why you took the painting?" I asked.

"I gave it grave consideration, sir. But there was no hint that anyone had missed the painting. Perhaps, I thought, no one will ever miss it. It is better to let it rest as it is."

"Reasonable enough," Foxcroft said. I saw him wink at Harper.

"Is it—might I ask if this Mr. Montie was the young American who—well, stole Lutzmann's young and pretty wife?"

"Mrs. Lutzmann was not stolen," I explained, "she was beaten and abused, and she prevailed upon Mr. Montie and his married sister to get her to America. Out of gratitude she gave him the painting she had taken along. There was no affair there, we can be assured."

"That would explain it. I had told Lutzmann the lie, that the painting was worthless. Then, she, Mrs. Lutzmann, would have told Mr. Montie that it was worthless. To him that would mean that it was a copy. A friend who thought he knew something but was evidently a fool about such matters, also told him it was a copy. I was hot-headed. Had I used judgment, told Mr. Montie the history of that painting, he would have turned it over as soon as he verified my story."

"But you waltzed in on the porch and stole the thing and Gerard Montie is found stabbed. How did you know about that silver rood, Professor?"

"I have told you," he answered, looking squarely at Harper, "that I knew nothing of a silver rood."

"What about this silver rood?" Colton asked Foxcroft.

"It was a knife, disguised as a rood."

"I never in my life heard of such a sacrifice—I never heard of a crucifix hiding a deadly weapon!" Lardeau was either terribly shocked or doing some good acting. "Did you see anyone while getting the painting?" I inquired.

"A gardener who told me not to wake Mr. Montie, and, when I came out, a man coming around the corner, a tall man. Old, I think, that is, grayish hair down to here."

He indicated a spot on his cheek at the bottom of his ear.

Foxcroft, Sergeant Harper and myself stared at Lardeau and at each other.

Here was, if he told the truth, an entirely new lead.

Foxcroft described Howard Griswold with excellent precision.

"No, no—not at all a young man. Grayish hair, dark clothes, a soft dark hat over his eyes. Of that I am sure."

"You had the painting, what did you do?" I asked the professor.

"I had it under my coat. I saw the man at the corner of the house beyond the porch. He must have seen me, for he turned back. I was grateful, and hurried away rapidly."

"He told me the same thing, over in Zurich," Colton said.

Theater Attractions

Joan Blondell and Errol Flynn in a scene from "The Perfect Specimen," the Grand theater feature tonight and Tuesday.

"The Perfect Specimen," starring Joan Blondell and Errol Flynn, will be seen at the Grand tonight and Tuesday.

The cast includes Hugh Herbert, Edward Everett Horton, Dick Foran, Beverly Roberts, May Robson and Allen Jenkins.

An Amusing Idea

An amusing idea actuates the story of "The Perfect Specimen." An immensely wealthy grandmother, with ideas of her own about eugenics and environment, thinks that Errol, her descendant, should be brought up all his life on her estate and trained to be what the title of the movie indicates.

Chance (and Miss Blondell) get him off the estate and he has his own way to make in the world of which he has been completely innocent. He proves that his tutoring has not been in vain, even when it comes down to boxing. He has been taught that as well as everything else, and he comes pretty close to fulfilling his grandma's hopes.

There are two fights in the show, both of which Errol wins; there is a kidnapping scare; there's a goofy poet, played by Hugh Herbert; a whimsical secretary to the old lady, played by Edward Everett Horton; a tough mug, played by Allen Jenkins; an energetic youth, played by Dick Foran, of western-movie fame; an attractive young lass played by Beverly Roberts; and no end of other amusing characters.

"Are you trying to help him?" Harper rasped, evidently quite sore. "After all, Sergeant, we sent my cousin over knowing that whatever he did would be on the level and in our behalf," Foxcroft rebuked.

"Sure, sure—no offense. We've got to know everything. If I were in the professor's place I would certainly think up something like that—seeing another man there."

"I saw him. He was as I described," Lardeau declared, with grave emphasis.

Elyria Girl Is Married To Fred Zeck

Miss Agnes Kubuske, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kubuske of Riverdale Court, Elyria, became the bride of Fred Zeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Zeck of Euclid st., Saturday.

The wedding was solemnized at 9 a. m. in St. Mary's Catholic church in Elyria, before an altar banked with palms and fall flowers. Rev. Fr. Edward Murphy heard the exchange of vows.

Mrs. Jack Hage of Elyria, organist, played the wedding music, which included vocal numbers by Dr. Charles Guth of Elyria.

The bride wore a gown of white moire taffeta fashioned on princess lines with leg of mutton sleeves. Her veil of lace and tulle was caught at the head in a halo of orange blossoms.

She carried a white prayer book, with gardenias and white roses arranged in shower effect.

Miss Ursula Kubuske was maid of honor and Miss Gertrude Wisak, bridesmaid. Their gowns, in shades of blue, were styled similar to the bride's. They carried Tailsman roses and bronze mums in arm bouquets. Floran Kubuske was best man.

A wedding reception was held at the Elyria Woman's club with 70 guests in attendance.

HOOVER DRIVES ON PROPAGANDA

Calls For Free Speech In Address At Colby College

(By Associated Press)

WATERVILLE, Me., Nov. 8.—Terminating free speech, free press and free debate the "very life stream of advancing liberalism," Herbert Hoover today warned the nation to guard against the "poison" of propaganda.

At the same time the former president asserted that in the last 15 years "every dictator who has ascended to power has climbed on the ladder of free speech and free press" and then "suppressed all free speech except his own."

Hits "Half Truth"

To counteract propaganda he prescribed "more free speech," adding "we must incessantly expose intellectual dishonesty and the purpose that lies behind it. . . . Half truth can be defeated with the whole truth."

Hoover spoke at Colby college on the 100th anniversary of the death of Elijah Parish Lovejoy, a graduate of the college and an editor at Alton, Ill., who perished defending his right to print what he wished against slavery.

A free press, Hoover said, "is far more than a publishers' privilege. It is a right of the people. But the publishers are its first lines of defense. They deserve the gratitude of the country for the zeal with which they have driven back every attempt at legal restrictions."

Describing propaganda as a "slander word meaning half-truth or any other distortion of truth," Hoover said it "moves by tainting of news, by making synthetic news and opinions and canards. It promotes the emotions of hate, fear and dissension. . . ."

Applied to Politics

"With still further refinements (since the World war) it has been applied to politics. The great quality of this improved poison seems to be that it must be artistically done. . . . The only living ex-president, Hoover made no mention of the Roosevelt administration, nor did he refer to the suggestion for a mid-term Republican convention which he has backed and which party leaders discussed in Chicago last week.

PUPPET MAKING IS REAL HOBBY

Interesting Work Provides Free Rein For Creative Art

who has been making the dolls and presenting them in plays for about three years, were the informants.

Mrs. Parks explained the making of her marionette family — five beautifully and authentically dressed dolls. Three of the group she calls her "Elizabethan Trio," since they are: "Queen Elizabeth," representing England's ruler who lived from 1533 to 1603; "Sir Walter Raleigh," famous courtier and figure in English history in Elizabeth's day; and John Knox, religious reformer, whose activities changed political and religious history during the Elizabethan era.

Suggests a Club

Mrs. Parks says she hopes some time to present plays with her marionettes. Until now, she has made them purely for her own enjoyment. She would like to organize a club or group of people interested in learning how to make puppets and present them in entertainments.

Mrs. Parks also has an authentically costumed English soldier and at present is engaged in fashioning a wolf to be used in a puppet theater dramatization of "Little Red Ridinghood" or some similar tale.

Miss Williams, who began her activities with marionettes when she was about ten years old, has gone a step farther with her puppets. Having made and attractively costumed her ten doll characters, she proceeded to learn two plays which she has presented for the enjoyment of more than one club and organization of the city.

Miss Williams has been working with puppets for about three or four years. "My first theater was a shoe box," she laughingly informed the News reporter.

The shoe box theater was replaced by a real stage, a small, easily portable one, which she used for some time in the presentation of "Snow White and the Dwarfs," a dramatization of the fairy tale. She had seven marionettes for that play, in which she enacted all parts and sang several songs.

Last Christmas she was presented a new stage, much larger than the portable one. It is about 72 inches long and is equipped with footlights, velvet curtains and all conveniences for operating the dolls.

Two Plays in Repertoire

Miss Williams has two plays, five characters each, which she has given with the large stage. One of them, "It Happened After All," is a Christmas story and required a herd of reindeer. She went to work and turned out a creditable herd of reindeer which she has used over and over.

The other, "The Frog Prince," has a realistic green frog as one of its principal characters. Considerable ingenuity, skill and patience are required to make and operate the marionettes. Those who have watched one in the process of creation or have seen it in operation can testify to the enjoyment derived from them.

National Wood Chopping Champion Will Give Demonstration Here Nov. 16

READY TO MEET LOCAL CHOPPERS

Salona Supply Co. Sponsors Appearance of Peter McLaren

Peter McLaren, who claims the wood chopping championship of America, will stage a log cutting contest and demonstration here Tuesday, Nov. 16. The event, scheduled for 1:30 p. m., has been arranged by the Salona Supply Co. The contest is open to any local man who has not previously competed against McLaren. A prize of $50 will be paid to any contestant if McLaren fails to chop through a log in two-thirds of the time the contestant takes.

Uses Plumb Axe
The only restriction is that no contestant be permitted to use a plumb axe, the efficiency of which is being advertised by the contest. This is the only axe which McLaren himself ever uses.

McLaren's ability with the axe was so striking that the late Arthur Brisbane used one of his performances as the basis of an article for his widely read column, Brisbane said.

To see with your own eyes something well done teaches more than many words of talk. Boy Scouts are taught to use hatchets and axes, and yesterday at the big Boy Scout camp of Allaire, New Jersey,

DISPLAYS NEW LAUNDRY LINE

Finley Music Co. Announces Westinghouse Models

The most modern developments in laundry equipment can be seen at the Finley Music Company store at 132 S. Broadway, according to R. B. Finley, manager. This Westinghouse dealer has just received the new models of the 1938 Westinghouse Laundry Equipment line, and has placed them on his sales floor for inspection.

"Many improvements and features are to be noted on the new 1938 models," Mr. Finley explains. Industry and science have spent vast sums of money and time to make these new products more useful to the housewife, as well as being more beautiful in design and pleasing in 'eye appearance'.

"The most popular model in the new 1938 Westinghouse Laundry Equipment Line is the Spinner Washer 'Queen' at the entire laundry equipment industry."

Does Four Jobs
This wringerless washer performs four laundry tasks. It thoroughly washes, rinses and damp-dries with unusual speed. Two of the operations—washing and damp-drying—can be performed simultaneously, thus saving a great deal of time. The Spinner Washer removes up to 30 per cent more water and is ideal for washing pillows and blankets.

Characterized as the safest washer ever made, the Westinghouse Spinner Washer has no exposed moving parts. Full control of all operations is had by two convenient levers; one operates the exclusive French-type tubulator and the new automatic discharge pump, while the other operates the Spinner basket. These controls are so designed as to be absolutely fool proof.

The Spinner Washer has handsome and harmonious color scheme of gleaming white, relieved with jet black trim. The interior and exterior of the tub have three coats of porcelain enamel fused into "Armco" metal base at 1700 degrees F., giving a finish as smooth as china.

Other Models
Four additional wringer model washers and four ironers are also included in the display at the local dealer's store. These models, while priced for every income, include the many features for which the new 1938 line has become famous.

Many of the new models have the same features included in the Spinner model, with the exception of the Spinner arrangement.

"Never has the laundry equipment industry shown such strides in progress and development," the local manager concluded. "The 1938 models offer a maximum of efficiency and release from laundry drudgery for a minimum expenditure."

PARIS CO. PLANT IS KEPT MODERN

Machinery and Methods Keep Step With Progress

Regardless of the size of the plant and its scope of business, few dry cleaning establishments today can boast of machinery or processes that are not used daily by the Paris cleaners on the Benton rd.

Keeping in touch constantly with the association and developments in the business L. C. Price, manager, is able to maintain a modern plant and modern service.

Benefits Customers
This, naturally, reacts to the benefit of its customers. Women who own fine garments, especially, would be amazed at the care taken to remove all traces of stains, while the materials retain their original luster and texture.

While few, perhaps, realize it, due to their unfamiliarity with the processes of the business, garments are washed in the solvents separately. Some being clarified until they are much softer than rain water, actually sparkling clear. Delicate, colored material such as silk must be treated differently from other fabrics.

Consequently, the Paris cleaners are equipped with several solvent washers, and not merely one. This is one mark by which the better cleaning companies are known.

The Paris also employs filters, as a further step in providing the best service possible. Every ounce of the 32,000 gallons of solvent used daily at the Paris touches the garments but once before it is filtered and re-enters the force-pump system to be applied to the garments again.

Nothing but clean fluid ever touches even the dirtiest of garments.

It is also true that soaps are developed especially for this advanced industry. These soaps may be seen lining the stock room of the cleaning department, each soap for a different, definite purpose. Needless to say, no soap is used at any time which would harm any garment.

With the garment as clean as when the fabric was first woven,

SERVICE KEEPS DRIVING SAFER

Smith Garage Backs Program To Reduce Accidents

Smith Garage, E. Third st., local Chrysler and Plymouth dealer, will take an active part in the 1938 "safety through service" program planned by service executives of Plymouth, Dodge, DeSoto and Chrysler according to J. G. Smith, president of the local firm.

"The 'safety through service' plan has been designed to co-operate with the Automotive Safety Foundation sponsored by the Automobile Manufacturers association. This foundation has as its sole objective increased safety on American highways through the elimination of unnecessary driving hazards.

"One of the most important contributions to safe driving is a car in good condition at all times. The easiest way for car owners to protect themselves is regular safety inspection and service by trained men with the equipment designed for the job.

"Among the many important check-ups which the approved service department offers as part of regular safety service are included brake and headlight tests, with adjustment if necessary, motor analysis and tune-up to give that valuable margin of extra power in tight places, and approved lubrication to assure relaxed safe driving. "An important factor is a series of sound-slide films which have been specially prepared by factory engineers to give our mechanics a thorough working acquaintance with all new features and service angles of the 1938 models. "Free safety check-ups will be offered in our service department. Motorists are urged to take advantage of this important contribution to relaxed, safe driving."

SCIENCE ends DANGER of WINTRY HOMES

New discovery cuts fuel bills 20 to 35% —makes homes easy to heat

FROM the Johns-Manville laboratories has come an amazing new insulation, a light, fluffy, wool-like substance that is actually blown from rock. It looks like cotton, but is a pure mineral, with all the characteristics of its stony origin—clean, fireproof, vermin-proof, permanent, odorless.

When installed in your attic floor or ceiling, it forms a heat-proof barrier more than 3 inches thick. Results are astounding. Costly heat is kept inside the home, and you can depend on savings of from 20 to 35% on your fuel bills. Furthermore, in the summer, your home

Only Two Major Teams Dropped From Unbeaten List In Saturday Games

UPSETS BRING ONLY FEW NEW GRID LEADERS

Baylor and Temple Fall From Select Circle Over Weekend

BY HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The surprising development of last week's uncolored-for revolt of the football underdogs was that the fall of prime favorites caused so little change in national and sectional championship races.

Of the 16 major teams which had boasted undefeated records, only two, Baylor and Temple, were removed from the list. Conference or sectional ratings, except for the southwest where Rice supplanted Baylor in first place, remained virtually unchanged.

Nationally here's how the undefeated list stood today:

East—Lafayette undefeated and untied; Duke, tied once.

Midwest—Nebraska, tied twice.

West—Santa Clara and Montana, undefeated and untied; California, tied once.

This week's program finds heavy stress laid on the inter-sectional game, especially in the east, but vital sectional games will be played in every conference as well. Prospects for the leading games include:

East

The principal spotlight falls on Pitt's battle with Nebraska at Pittsburgh. The Panthers were sheer dynamite as Goldberg, Stebbins and Patrick smashed through Notre Dame's defense in a three-touchdown, fourth-period surge that earned Pitt a 21-6 triumph last week.

Nebraska, on the other hand, had to come from behind to gain a 13 to 13 draw with Kansas in a major upset, that left Nebraska's hopes of a third successive Big Six championship somewhat on the dim side.

Notre Dame will invade the east to give battle to Army, which took advantage of a Harvard fumble in the fourth quarter to pull out a hardly-deserved 7-6 decision. Penn, outpointed by Penn State, 7-0 plays Michigan's Wolverines, who had to score twice in the last four minutes to nose out Chicago, 13-12.

Manhattan, 7-0 upset conqueror of Detroit, will entertain North Carolina State, which ran up a 26-14 count on Citadel.

Western college, after routing Boston Maryland, 27-0, expects rugged competition from Kentucky's Wildcats who spilled South Carolina, 27-7. Harvard takes on Davidson, West Virginia meets Toledo, and Rutgers plays Ohio University. Duquesne, surprised by Carnegie Tech, 6-0, travels to Lubbock to face Texas Tech. Tomorrow the big domestic struggles of the day will find Dartmouth arrayed against Cornell and Yale again at Princeton.

Undefeated Villanova, Holy Cross and Lafayette all look safe while Fordham, an impressive array in a 21-3 victory over Purdue, takes Saturday off.

Middle-West

Ohio State's shocking 10-0 defeat at the hands of Indiana left Minnesota the only team still unbeaten within the Big Ten conference.

The Gophers, who overcame a 10-0 deficit to trounce Iowa, 35-10, find Northwestern Wildcats, clawed by Illinois, 6-0, next in line. Ohio State and Illinois, Iowa and Indiana, and Wisconsin and Purdue are the other conference pairings. Chicago cases off against Beloit.

Kansas, bidding for at least a share in the Big Six title, plays Kansas State, while Missouri, whipped 14-7 by St. Louis, tackles Oklahoma, 33-7 conqueror of Iowa State.

Michigan State and Carnegie furnish the inter-sectional angle to the mid-western program.

Southwest

Rice, which conquered Arkansas, 26-20, battles to hold its conference lead against Texas A. and M., 14-0. Baylor, victim of a terrific 9-6 defeat by Texas, will meet U. Texas plays Texas Christian, nosed out by Centenary, 10-9, also on a field goal.

South

Alabama had to resort to a field goal by Sandy Sanford to turn back Tulane, 9-6, and found Auburn's plainsmen a challenging menace to its bid for the Southeastern conference crown.

Auburn thoroughly battered Tennessee, 20-7. Both leaders face rugged rivals this week. Alabama plays Georgia Tech, which recently removed Vanderbilt from the unbeaten class. Auburn must meet Louisiana State's Tigers, who ran up a 41-0 count on Mississippi State. Other conference games find Georgia upset 6-0 by Florida, playing Tulane; Tennessee battling Vanderbilt, 0-0 by Florida, playing Tulane; Tennessee battling Vanderbilt, 41-0 conqueror of Sewanee, and Mississippi State playing Sewanee.

Duke, which routed Wake Forest, 67-0, tops the Southern conference field, with Clemson, Maryland, North Carolina, 26-0 victor over Davidson, still in the running.

Former Fighter To Open Athletic Club In Salem

Plans for the opening of a new athletic club in Salem were announced today by Jimmy Perry, former Alliance boxer, who has been working at the National Sanitary Co. plant here for the last two years.

Perry, who was one of the best featherweights in the district several years back, plans to open the club this week in the old Odd Fellows lodge rooms on S. Broadway above Faltz' grocery store.

Training equipment was installed in the rooms yesterday.

Classes in boxing instruction and gymnastics will be held at the club rooms from 7 until 10 p. m. three nights of each week, Monday, Tuesday and Friday. If sufficient interest is shown, Perry will hold classes every night in the week after the club is well organized.

The classes are open to business men as well as young men who desire boxing instruction. Special or private athletic courses will be available to business men, Perry said.

Qualified by years of experience in the fight game, Perry hopes to develop several local boxers through his training classes.

Young men interested in boxing are asked to contact him, either at his home, 1133 Maple st., or at the club rooms.

Perry fought in Salem several times during his boxing career. His record includes about 120 fights in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kentucky in addition to training experience with Tony Canzoneri, former world's lightweight champion.

Perry will use the name "Jimmy's Athletic Club" for his new organization.

MINNESOTA TO TRY TO CINCH BIG 10 CROWN

Gophers Need Win Saturday To Sew Up 4th League Title

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Minnesota makes its big bid next Saturday for a fourth undisputed Western conference football title.

The Golden Gophers, only undefeated team in the Big Ten, have won three games and will be favored to take a fourth Saturday at the expense of Northwestern. The final game on Minnesota's schedule is with Wisconsin, which does not figure to stop the Bernie Bierman aggregation.

Minnesota's last undisputed championship was in 1934, when the Gophers won five straight. In 1909 and 1911 they had clear titles, sharing in conference grid honors six other times since 1896.

Northwestern, which was tripped up 6 to 0 by Illinois Saturday, may upset the Gophers, but the Gophers probably will be hard to halt, particularly because they vividly recall that wildcats last fall. Northwestern, moreover, did not look too strong against Illinois, while Minnesota gave evidence of its power in downing Iowa 35 to 10.

Ohio State, with three wins and one defeat, will be favored to take out on Illinois the Buckeyes' 10 to 0 upset defeat by Indiana. After Illinois, Ohio State is scheduled to take Michigan in stride, but the damage to the Buckeye cause was done Saturday by the scrappy Hoosiers.

Michigan, which scored two touchdowns in the final four minutes to hand the hapless Chicago Maroons a 13 to 12 defeat, goes east to take on Pennsylvania, and may add an inter-sectional victory to its of three straight, one-point conference conquests. Chicago probably will reach victory against Beloit college of Wisconsin.

Purdue and Wisconsin may put on one of the most even battles of the year. The Boilermakers were defeated 21 to 3 by Fordham Saturday as Wisconsin enjoyed a vacation. Indiana, with two conference triumphs and one loss, will be favored over Iowa and if the Hoosiers can whip Purdue Nov. 20, will have made the best showing of any Indiana team in Big Ten competition.

The Hoosiers never have won a shared in a championship, their best previous record being three victories and one defeat. They made those marks in 1910 and 1920 and last season won three, lost one and tied one.

ELEVEN TEAMS IN STATE END GRID SEASONS

22 Games Scheduled For Ohio College Grids This Week

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—Only little Rio Grande will be missing on the Ohio football front this week as 22 games involving 34 of the state's 35 teams herald the end of the 1937 gridiron wars for more than a third of them.

Three contests are scheduled for Thursday, Armistice day, and the other 19 are booked Saturday. Rio Grande wound up its six-game slate a week ago. These teams will bow out of the picture after the coming contests: Baldwin-Wallace, Kenyon, Hiram, Defiance, Capital, Bowling Green, Findlay, Kent State, Otterbein, Alfred Holbrook and Bluffton.

On the 19th anniversary of the "war to end all wars," Kent State and Ashland and Bowling Green and Heidelberg tangle in Ohio conference games having no bearing on the championship, while Defiance and Findlay meet in a non-league affair.

Saturday's slate is filled with action and possibilities of upsets which might create havoc with the present lineup of teams.

Illinois, winner over Northwestern by 6 to 0 Saturday, invades Columbus for a Big Ten clash with Ohio's Bucks, who lost a 10 to 0 decision to Indiana last week. That's the headline, but a host of other games demand a share of the spotlight.

The Buckeye loop leaders go into action, Dayton entertaining Miami's rejuvenated Redskins, and Marshall's powerhouse acting as host to Cincinnati's oft-beaten Bearcats. Denison, the state's top team, will tangle with Wooster at Granville and the Scots are granted an even chance to win.

Xavier, after missing a host of games from outside the state with indifferent success, tackles Baldwin-Wallace at Berea. Xavier also has games coming up with Akron and Toledo, each beaten but once.

Ten of the Ohio clubs take on out-of-state foes, this week. In addition to the Ohio-Illinois and Cincinnati-Marshall tilts, the inter-state battles are: John Carroll vs. St. Benedict at Chicago, Assumption (Canada) at Bluffton, Ohio U. at Rutgers, Wilberforce at Bluefield (W. Va.) State, Toledo at West Virginia, Hiram at Detroit Tech, Illinois Wesleyan at Akron, and Alfred Holbrook at Transylvania.

Other Saturday games: Oberlin at Ohio Northern at Mount Union, Capital at Otterbein, Marietta at Muskingum, Kenyon at Wittenberg, Wooster at Denison, and Ohio Wesleyan at Western Reserve.

The Ohio standings:

Indiana Beats Ohio State, 10-0

The Indiana Hoosiers, surprising almost 50,000 football fans at Columbus, handed Ohio State a 10 to 0 upset defeat by stopping Ohio State's running attack cold and smashing down its aerial attack whenever they had to. Here Nick Wasyluk, of Ohio State, is shown going down after running a punt 37 yards in the second quarter.

BOWLING NEWS

Three Salem teams, bowling under the colors of the Grate Motors, went to Cleveland Saturday night for return matches with three Ford teams of that city, and only one came home with a victory.

Team No. 1, the "class" of the outfit, lost by a score of 2,613 to 2,577, and No. 2 lost, 2,383 to 2,331. E. L. Grate's 236 helped his team win, 2,225 to 2,208.

Steak dinners went to the winners while the losers had to be satisfied with sauerkraut and wieners. Wives of the bowlers entered into the festivities of the evening.

Turning in the highest three-game score credited to a Salem bowler this season, Mike Hutter paced the Salem Eagles road team to a close victory over the Massillon Lelsy Beers at Massillon Sunday. The match score was 2,795 to 2,788.

Hutter chalked up a 716 series to lead all bowlers in the match. His splendid score was made on games of 245, 223 and 248.

The ladies team from the Salem Eagles lodge also came through with a victory at Massillon, defeating the Massillon "Eagles" ladies' quintet, 1933 to 1931.

Pin boy rivalry between the Masonic temple and Grate Recreation wood-stickers was renewed at the Grate alleys Saturday with the Recreation boys winning the match, 1,516 to 1,329.

ALLIANCE, Nov. 8.—A powerful and spirited Alliance High team crushed a hitherto undefeated Barton opponent, 27-6 before 2,000 fans at the Mount Union stadium Saturday.

Despite a slow start, the Aviators used well timed blocking with their repertoire of power plays to mark up their fifth win of the season. The backfield, paced by Artino and Sirebilo, chalked up two touchdowns in the second frame and from then on easily accounted for the triumph.

La Guardia Gets Tiger's Skin!

Newbold Morris

Mayor La Guardia

Following the sweeping victory of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia over Tammany Hall in the New York elections, an admirer presented him with a tiger skin for his office, symbolic of the manner in which he stripped the historic political machine of its power. With La Guardia is Newbold Morris, newly-elected president of city council. Following his smashing triumph, La Guardia had a conference with President Roosevelt at the latter's New York home, a meeting considered highly significant in that La Guardia is a Republican and that James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, had endorsed Jeremiah Mahoney, La Guardia's opponent.

WALKENS JOIN HARRIS GROUP

N. I. Walken renews Partnership with Former Associate

ment Co. has expanded gradually until today it comprises 16 theaters and Duguesne Garden, Pittsburgh, the home of the Pittsburgh Hornets hockey team.

The addition of the State and Grand gives them 18 theaters, with two others under construction, in Mt. Lebanon and the Perryville districts of Pittsburgh.

Partnership Renewed
Acquisition of the two Salem theaters will mark the renewal of an old partnership, for N. I. Walken formerly was a partner with John H. Harris in Washington, D. C., and Etna, Pa., theaters prior to the sale of all Harris directed theaters to Warner Brothers. Mr. Walken will remain a partner in Salem, and is acquiring an interest in other Harris enterprises.

He announced today that there will be no change in the policies of the local theaters. Rather, he pointed out, service will be improved, where possible, because of the merger with the larger organization.

Among preliminary steps will be the installation of additional balcony seats at the Grand theater.
